About Riega Foods

Riega Foods began out of a simple, sincere need. We were looking for gluten-free spices and seasonings to feed our family. From the grocery aisle to the health food store, the products we found were dull and inconsistent. Coming from a family of farmers, we knew flavor started at the source. So, we partnered with farmers who can provide real, organic ingredients for the foundation of our products. Then, we went further, traveling the world to find producers of herbs and spices who care about quality as much as we do. Over the years, we've nurtured these relationships, helped each other's businesses grow, and kept our circle of suppliers tight and our standards high.

Capabilities

We have a hand in the entire lifecycle of our products. From the farm to our centrally-located Kansas City production facility, we are able to see our goods come to life from seed, to shelf, to your fork. Riega Foods offers bulk ingredients, industrial blends, co-packing, private label, Riega branded products and R&D options for just about any market need.

Bulk Ingredients

Riega Foods imports organic and conventional ingredients from 20+ countries around the globe. We are one of the largest organic herb and spice importers in the United States. Our Supply Chain and Quality Assurance teams are hands-on from the field to our facility to ensure the products meet your specifications.

Riega Brands

Our retail products include a wide range of organic and conventional spices and blends. A few of our products include: Tex-Mex pouches, street taco pouches, superfood blends, salt and pepper grinders, and a variety of seasoning shakers.

Industrial Blending

Riega Foods can create herb and spice blends to incorporate in your products. At our new, state-of-the-art facility we have the capabilities to blend 250 pounds to full truck loads. Our in-house R&D team of food scientists can match blends or create new flavors for you. We help bring your ideas to life with services from product ideation to formula creation, all with competitive turnaround times. Riega Foods can also provide organic and kosher certifications for your product.

Co-Packing/Private Label

We can package your proprietary blends in many different containers or packaging choices, all in our gluten-free, nut-free, SQF-certified facility. Or, choose from our library of organic and conventional formulas for your next private label project. No matter what your formulation, production and packing needs are, we can help you grow your brand.
