

FactoryXperts plans and builds big, medium-sized and small food productions. We combine experienced operational planners, strategy consultants and logistics planners with architects and engineers to form a centre of excellence for the rebuilding and new construction of food and beverage factories that is unique in Europe.

Source: adobe stock photo, FactoryXperts

Success can be planned. With FactoryXperts.

How can new buildings and reconstructions in the fields of manufacturing and logistics be planned and implemented even better to create perfect conditions for a successful future with optimal use of resources?

It is exactly this question that inspires us each and every day and led to the founding of FactoryXperts in 2013.

Investment projects open up new market opportunities for companies, but at the same time entail enormous risks. It would be great to have experts at your side who understand your industry and your processes, and at the same time are proficient in all aspects of planning and construction.

The interdisciplinary FactoryXperts team in Switzerland and Germany comprises specialists from all disciplines: from logistics and operations engineering to architecture, construction planning and overall project management to controlling, change management and strategic corporate development.

Whether you commission us with the general planning of a large-scale project or entrust us with a partial step, whether you want to build on the green field or optimize your value chain – you always benefit from the innovative power, precision and efficiency of a dynamic company with Swiss and German roots.

You can find more information about FactoryXperts at www.factoryxperts.com

FactoryXperts International AG
Werkhofstrasse 2
8360 Eschlikon / Switzerland
Phone: +41 71 929 9160
info@factoryxperts.com