BOLA

The bola is a form of decoration that comes from hundreds of years of Maya history. Carried by expectant mothers during pregnancy, resting against the abdomen, so that during any movement the unborn child hears a soft ringing sound [from about 16-20 weeks]. It would invoke guardian angel to watch over the unborn child and bring good luck. Once born, this is said to remember the child to the safety of the uterus.

HOW TO USE

Wear the bola in such a way that the bell rests on your belly preferably near the navel. The intention is that the soft sounds that the bell makes during movement are nice to here for the baby in the womb. Make sure the chain fits securely and comfortably. You can wear the bola during the entire pregnancy.

This season, jewelry brand Proud MaMa is releasing a new necklace.

CREATE YOUR OWN PIECE OF JEWELRY

A beautiful oval shaped bolas with a stainless steel necklace that you can change endlessly thanks to the clasp with which you can change the charms! This collection is designed for the "momtobe" who loves style, versatility and a personal touch. In addition to the bolas, we also have a loose necklace to which you can attach the charms, so you can wear them during but also after your pregnancy!

- Changeable Charms: Choose from a wide range of charms to give your bola or necklace a different look every day. From elegant gemstones to playful figures or horoscopes charms, there is something for everyone.
- Bolas: The soft, soothing sound of the bola has a calming effect on both mother and baby. The sound can promote a sense of calm and well-being, reducing stress. Wearing a pregnancy necklace can become a special ritual for the mother, where she feels connected to her baby and is aware of her pregnancy.
- Personal Touch: Create your own style and tell your story with charms that have meaning to you.

Timeless, stylish and decorated by simplicity, that's how you could best describe Proud MaMa
